THE Second Branch of the City Council did not see fit last night to concur in the amendment of the First Branch fix ing the 20th of this month as the day for taking a vote on the license question. They changed their minds during the week that has elapsed since they decided to submit the question to the voters of the city, and concluded last night to forego any expression of popular sovereignty whatever. This illustrates the beauties of representative government. Popular sovereignty is a good thing to talk about on the Fourth of July, but as a practical piece of furniture it is absolutely valueless when there is an excitement in the community and when the ballot would be useful in determining public sentiment. The popular sovereignty in vogue under such circumstances is

"The good old rule, the simple plan. That he shall take who has the power and he shall keep who can."

his warmest admirers. If he had restricted himself only to inculcating temperance and the following of temperance habits, nobody would have had any objections to his utterances; but when he opposes licenses, and advocates absolute prohibition, which experience shows cannot be enforced, on the contrary, in-creases intemperance, and as Chief Commissioner Griffith, of Boston, said, leads missioner Grillith, of Boston, said, leads to corruption, we greatly regretted that the Right Reverend Bishop placed himself in direct antagonism to Archbishop Purcell's views, who, fully convinced that no laws of absolute prohibition can be carried out, uttered counsels of wisdom

The people of the country are used to moral and religious precepts on all subjects, and yet vice is widespread throughout society. Restrictive measures are needed, the only question being how far they should go. That the liquor business needs to be put under the strictest surveillance of the law and confined within parrow limits, no right thinking man who sees and deplores the evils resulting from it can doubt for a moment. It is undeniably the great evil that threatens society to-day, and a man of Bishop WHELAN's intelligence and long experience will simply smile at the idea of controlling it by rhetorical fulminations

CONFLICTING STATEMENTS. Mr. G. F. Hoar made the point of order that it must receive its first consideration in Committee of the Whole, for the reamon, among others, that it was a bill to increase the public debt.

Mr. Garfield made the additional point that the rule provides that no motion or proposition for a tax or charge on the people shall be discussed on the same day on which it is made or offered.

The Speaker—The Chair agrees with New York, April 14.—The statement hand the statement is made by the chlei engineer of the Greece that at the time he boarded the Europe after her abandon-ment her fires were not put out by water, but that had the crew remained at their posts no difficulty would have been exposts no difficulty would have been ex-perienced in keeping the water under and safely continuing the voyage.

On reaching the Greece I saw the Captain, and it was decided to ascertain for certain the gravity of the leakage. asir. Garfield—Then let us make that a point.

The Speaker—That point is one which the chair has never ruled upon; because it is not for the chair to say what the Senate of the United States may or may not properly do. Where the House has disagreed with the Senate upon that point it has always been by the vote of the House. If the House agrees that the Senate sent this bill here properly, all the points of the gentlemen from Massachusetts fall; because the House cannot concede that the Senate originated this bill properly and sent it here properly and then ask the chair to rule that it is a tax bill and imposes a public burden.

Mr. Garfield—the House can waive its light in the matter. bill and imposes a public burden.

Mr. Garfield—the House can waive its right in the matter.

The House can't waive its right on a grave question as between the two branches and then sak the Chair to enforce a minute rule as to the mode of proceeding. The great question is as to whether this bill properly originated in the Senate. If that question be not raised the Chair is bound to presume and can have no other presumption that the House regards the bill as properly here.

Mr. Garfield—Then I raise the question is active the printing of National Bank notes, and that, therefore, under rule the bill must first be considered in the Committee of the Whole.

The speaker overruled the point of order, because the expenses was to be a charge on the Treasury.

Mr. Maynard then moved the previous question on the passage of the Senate bill and it was seconded; 121 to 59.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14 .- The Tartar, of Australia, arrived to-day, thirty-one days out from Sidney. All well The The most important news has been anticipated by telegraph. On March 12th the shock of an earthquake was felt in the provinces.

The Adelaide Herald regrets that the trade hat was Nature 12th the shock of an earthquake was felt in the provinces.

The Adelaide Herald regrets that the trade between Sydney and San Francisco is not more extensive. Much loss and depression has been occasioned by the strike of the iron workers. The Herald says that for this reason the future of the manulacturers will be most uncertain. Still the general country is thriving.

The Tartar made fast to the steamer MacGreeg and nulled about four heavy.

MacGregor and pulled about four hours, but failed to starther. When she left the steamer was in the same position.

The inter-Colonial difficulties between Sydney and Victoria are not yet settled. The inland free trade across the river boundary has been stopped.

LOUISVILLE, April 14.—About 11 o'clock this morning W. R. Abbott, a prominent lawyer of this city, was shot and supposed mortally wounded by John R. Green, a member of the firm of Marton, Galt & Co., bankers. A case had been argued in court in which both parties had been engaged, and coming out of the court house some words passed between them, the lie given, and Abbott struck Green with his cane, who drew a pletol and fired three times, the shots taking effect in Abbotts right side. Green was arrested and placed in Jail and Abbott was taken home where he is now lying in a taken home where he is now lying in very critical condition. The created a profound sensation in this com-munity, where both parties were widely known and respected.
